Entry Interview

Generated by Hypercontext.com

This is a meeting conducted shortly after an employee joins the organization. There are two main goals for this meeting. First, to make employees feel valued from day one. When employees feel valued by their managers, they are more willing to go above and beyond to contribute. Second is to help managers gain valuable insights for motivating employees. They can design more meaningful jobs and support them in “crafting” projects that are developmental and engaging.
